Initial Build Notes

First impressions

- A lot of slight improvements from last time! Especially appreciate the choice of carousal to list artworks
- Overall seems close to the final version, not many rooms of improvement

Strength

- The change of the navigation bar to hamburger form in mobile view is very successful!
- The slight change of background color to divide sections is great
- Cohesive visual language throughout the whole website
- Responsive design is smooth and effective

Rooms of Improvement

- Would prefer if the background image of the first page is one of high-resolution image of Michelangelo's works (as of now the image seems a bit low-res)
- The blue colors for emphasis seem like they should be linked to another page—maybe change it to another color (like dark red?)
- The image of David can be cut at his torso so that his face shows (same for other sculpture pieces)
